Flesh Gloves and Straps.

(This Invention received Provisional Protection only.)

PROVISIONAL SPECIFICATION left by George Lawrence at the Office of the Commissioners of Patents, with his Petition, on the 6th March 1862.

I, GEORGE LAWRENCE, of Newton Terrace, Westbourne Grove, in the 5 County of Middlesex, do hereby declare the nature of the Invention for “IMPROVEMENTS IN THE MANUFACTURE OF FLESH GLOVES AND FLESH STRAPS,” to be as follows:—

This Invention has for its object improvements in the manufacture of flesh gloves and flesh straps. Heretofore flesh gloves and flesh straps have been so 10 constructed as to be suitable respectively only for their distinct and separate uses.

Now my improvements consist in so manufacturing flesh gloves and flesh straps that the same instruments may be used at different times, either as flesh gloves or as flesh straps. For these purposes flesh gloves are made in a 15 manner very similar to that now commonly practised, but with a strap at one end of each glove, and the other end of each flesh glove is formed in such manner as to be readily joined or connected with its fellow glove by means of buttons or other fastenings. Thus a flesh strap will consist of two flesh gloves fastened end to end, having straps at the ends to draw the flesh strap to 20 and fro over the surface of the skin on the back or other parts of the body of the user. The two flesh gloves of which a flesh strap is composed when detached or separated the one from the other are capable of being used when drawn on the hands in the ordinary manner in which flesh gloves have been heretofore used.
